Host Dining Table

Charles and Ray believed in a philosophy that guided their relationships with people and space, and influenced the invention of their every design. Charles and Ray's guiding philosophy was to be a good host; to be thoughtful in anticipating the needs of their guests. This attitude would be an essential ingredient in their design of a useful object, like a dining table, which would provide the essential base for an effortless dining experience. The Host Table is not a reproduction but is inspired by the ideology of these iconic designers, seeking to bring simple, functional and elegant design to everyday living.
